PROFILE

I have been teaching and researching finance, banking, and accounting for over five years. I have a strong understanding of modern financial practices and regulations, which allows me to provide relevant extension services for business development, public financial management and individual financial independence. My profound sense of dedication, analytical skills, and assertiveness help to promote creativity and innovation in the University and the community. I am highly committed to teaching, training, mentoring, and coaching students to unleash their potential in their studies and field of work. My research primarily focuses on Financial Technology, Bank Management, and Policy Management.
